

A MCNABB FAMILY LINEAGE

The first William McNabb came to Boston circa 1690 and by 1695-97 was settled in the Delaware River Valley in what is now Monroe County, Penn. ^{Moravian Church Missionaries'}Records* show that Wm. McNabb was a blacksmith and was well known in the area. His son, Wm. McNabb II, married Betty Aiken or van Akin, of which there were several such families in the immediate vicinity. After Betty died, circa 1740, Wm. II, moved to Augusta, Virginia where he obtained a grant in 1749. Wm. McNabb II, was accompanied by several of his children, i.e., Baptiste, John, Samuel, Betty & James, with Baptiste being the oldest one, having been born circa 1723 in the area of Dansbury, now Stroudsburg, Penn.

Baptiste McNabb married Katherine-----and they moved to the Buffalo River area of then Washington County, NC, now Carter County, Tenn., where Baptiste constructed the first grist mill in Tenn. in 1770. The children of Baptiste & Katherine were: Isabella, John, born 1755; David, born 1757; James (Jonathon); William; Mary; Jane; Margaret; Katrin (Katherine). Baptiste acquired several land grants in the present area of Carter Co. Tenn, where his will was written on 4 Jan. 1784, and probated 18 May 1784. Katherine, his wife, had died at an earlier date. Wm. McNabb, the father of Baptiste died in 1789 in the Wautauga area, of Washington County, NC/Tenn.

David McNabb born 22 Feb. 1757 in Augusta Co., Va. died on 13 May 1826, in Carter Co., Tenn. He married Elizabeth Taylor in 1778 and the names of their children are shown on the previous page.

Nathaniel Taylor McNabb born 5 Feb. 1783 in Washington Co. NC/TN in 1805, married Eleanor McCubbins, dau of Captain Zachariah & Sara Lane McCubbins. Among their several children was James Pinckney McNabb
